Important Link in Evidence.

New York, Aug. 11.—The arrest of Sam Schepps in Hot Springs has given a new impetus to the Rosenthal case. It is considered the most important development since the confessions of Jack Rose and "Brigle" Webber led to the indictment of Police Lieutenant Becker as the alleged instigator of the murder. Schepps has been wanted badly by the district attorney to paying off the assassins.

Sea* Girt, N. J. Aug. 11.—Governor Woodrow Wilson indirectly took a hand today in the political situation in Maine where the gubernatorial elections in September are expected to re-veal the trend of strength of the three presidential nominees in that state. Replies to Letters.

The governor's having the question made an issue between political parties. The governor's views originally were communicated to Rev. Thomas B. Shannon of Newark, N. "They have thrown every other question, however, important, into the background and have made constructive party action impossible for long years together. So far as I am myself concerned, therefore, I can never consent to have the question of local option made an issue between political parties in that state. My judgment is very clear in this matter. I do not believe that party programmes of the highest consequence to the political highest consequence to the political life of the state and of the nation ought to be thrust on one side and hopelessly embarrassed for long periods together by making a political issue of a great question which is essentially non-political, non-partisan, moral and social in its nature.'

"Reds" Take First Prisoners

"RED" ARMY IN PLACE

Actual Hostilities in Mimic War Begin Today-Crowds of Visitors-Gov. Dix and Gov. Foss Present.

Manoeuvers Headquarters, Stratford Conn., Aug. 11—The "Blue" army which is defending New York city found the left wing of the invading "Red" army during last night through outpost contact at Woodmont, in Milford. There was evidence that both armies are in force thereabouts, the "Blues" having been pushed forward to Indian River. Thirty miles north cavalry patrols of both sides crossed the Housatonic without seeing each the Housatonic without seeing each other, using Zoar bridge which is still open. Neither side has seized the bridge. The patrols were reditiamen who had gotten too far in advance of their support. Many of these patrols had not been found at dark and were probably lost in the woods. In the outpost contact at Woodmont prisoners were captured on each side. At no other point on the fifty mile front was the advance in actual touch.

Marched to Tyler City. After the "Reds" had landed their tree at New Haven last night General Dyer marched his brigade, made up of the Seventh, Twelfth, Sixty-ninth and Seventy-first infantry, to Tyler City in Orange. The artillery which had also landed at that city went in a more northerly direction. General Eddy, who commands the Second New York believed. York brigade, marched the Fourteenth, Twenty-third and Porty-seventh reg-iments over the bridges of the Housetonic river at Stratford and disappear ed in the darkness.

Pickets Take Prisoners. It was evident that both sides im mediately sent out their pickets under Brigadier General Bliss' first field or-der, requiring utmost vigilance after six p. m. In the storm the 69th New York's pickets westward found the 14th New York and captured seven "Blues" while the latter's pickets sent ing its proper place.

Everywhere the non-combatant portion of the community was out to see the sights. Patriotism was every-where shown by banners and flags. Automobiles were counted by the thousands and the many camps, large and small, were thronged all day.

With Minimum Baggage. At Derby the admirers of the Massachusetts regiments, especially the Ninth infantry were so numerous as to hamper their movements. Profiting by experience the Massachusetts for es came in with baggage trains almost down to the minimum capacity The Vermonters also were stripped for business. > Shifts to Fool the Enemy. Many of the lesser commands were made to change their base, especially on the "Blue" side, where artillery, cavalry and engineer detachments were quickly shifted in order to make valueless any information the "Reda" might have. The large camps were not changed as there was so much de-tail to be looked after connected with the formation of brigades. The "Reds" made few shifts in their larger units. Hard on the Horses. Detraining and maintaining lines of communication are proving hard on horse flesh. While the 47th was unoading from the cars at Stratford one horse was kicked by another and injured.
